Board Greetings

“We continue to grow as people, even right now that time is hard. We wouldn’t have done that without you! None of us would be who we are without your help and consideration. We hope that you can feel how thankful we are. You are in our prayers, especially in this time of crisis.” MSA Class of 2021, 7th Grade

As I begin this greeting from the Mother Seton Academy Board of Directors to you, our donors, I could not find a better opening than this excerpt from a letter written by the seventh graders in June of this year. After three months of virtual learning and the disappointment at the abrupt intrusion of COVID-19 into their school year, they are still filled with gratitude and hope. They go on to speak of what a privilege it is to be students at Mother Seton Academy and they realize that this opportunity is only possible because of the scholarships you provide.

In addition 2019-2020 saw the exciting completion of our new gymnasium which added a whole new aspect to the holistic experience of educating youth today. The amazing success of the Capital Campaign was dependent on your wonderful generosity. We all look forward to resuming the full use of this state of the art facility.

I am very proud to be a part of this school community that works so diligently to fulfill its mission of challenging its students to realize their God-given talents and make a difference in the community around them. We are in awe of the work of Sister Peggy, Dr. Sucre, the faculty and staff for adapting so beautifully to the demands of distance learning and continuing to provide a quality education which meets the needs of each individual student.

Thank you for the kindness and generosity you have shown to Mother Seton Academy over the past year. Your support of our mission makes a huge difference in the lives of our students.

May God bless you.

Sincerely,

Sr. Mary Frances Hildenberger, DC

President's Message

"It was the best of times. It was the worst of times..."

Dear Friends of Mother Seton Academy,

The opening words of A Tale of Two Cities by Charles Dickens came to my mind as I began my reflection on the 2019-2020 school year. A bit hyperbolic, the description matches a year that was composed of two very distinctive experiences.

The year opened with record enrollment. We moved through the final stages of a successful capital campaign. In December, we completed the construction of a gymnasium. Students and teachers engaged in building a strong learning community. Because of you, our donors and benefactors, the mission and vision of Mother Seton Academy were alive and thriving.

And then came March. The building was shuttered. Teaching taking place virtually. Uncertainty was the tone for our school, our broader community and our world. Fortunately, our teachers were prepared to use the available technology to continue to provide meaningful instruction. Their creativity and perseverance strengthened their efforts to provide stability in the changing times. Dr. Sucre, our principal, continued to adapt the schedule and plans to meet the needs of our students and teachers. Donors like you provided needed resources needed to support our students and families as they coped with uncertain times.

What has been certain is your commitment to our students and mission at Mother Seton Academy. Your generous and prayerful support gave us the resources and strength to respond to the challenges of these days. Summer days gave our teachers and students time to regroup and to focus on growth and learning.

What the future will hold is uncertain, but what is sure is our daily gratitude for your generous support of our girls and boys. Let us continue to pray for one another that all be kept safe during this challenging time. May God bless you and your loved ones and keep you safe.

With gratitude,

Sister Peggy Juskelis, SSND

Opportunity of a Lifetime

Typically Mother Seton Academy holds its annual fall fundraiser at the beginning of November. This event involves tasting delicious wines from around the region, eating savory hors d'oeuvre, bidding on exciting auction items, and learning more about the school's work. But with the health and safety of our attendees paramount, this year's event had to change.

In its place, Mother Seton Academy did something completely different... a "virtual" Wine Harvest. Using this as a chance for something new, the faculty, students, and their families (in separate, safe, socially distanced meetings) were spoken with to learn more about what the school means to them and why they think its mission is so important. Throughout these interviews, three main focuses seemed to continue to be brought up: value, community, and gratitude.

Interviewees mentioned two types of values when speaking of Mother Seton Academy. Everyone said how exceptional the schooling is for the young girls and boys at Mother Seton Academy. Something every parent wants to give their child, but few can afford it—a place where their child is seen as an individual and shown their worth as a whole being. The quality of the education received is renowned through the area because high schools know that students from Mother Seton Academy are held to the highest standards and come prepared to take on the world.

Additionally, the students are taught values beyond academia. They are taught self-worth, respect for others, the virtue of hard work, and the importance of giving back. These are things not every school finds as important as Mother Seton Academy. But it will be of great value when they are older and will make them community members who will make changes in the world around them.

The next focus Mother Seton Academy interviewees spoke about is the sense of community. The care for each and every student of the school goes beyond a single child and to the family as well. Each parent/guardian said how being a part of Mother Seton Academy felt like being members of a caring family. A family that would be there and support them when needed, whether helping a student falling behind, providing equipment for families unable to pay for it, or finding aid for those who have lost their jobs, this school encompasses its community members in love.

Last but not least, was gratitude. From teachers to students to board members, all were overwhelmed with gratitude. Teachers for the opportunity to work somewhere they love. Board members to be a part of changing the futures. Students to go to school somewhere that cares about them. Families having the chance for their children to get an education that will give them brighter futures.

All of these things are what make Mother Seton Academy more than a school... They make it a once in a lifetime opportunity.

Educating during a Pandemic

The world changed in March of 2020.

What was supposed to be a two-week quarantine turned into months of a new way of living. We do not know when things go back to normal or if they go back to normal. Regardless, one thing that will not change is Mother Seton Academy's commitment to its families and students.

During the two-week "break," the faculty and staff made preparations for the possibility of being unable to return to school. When news came out that quarantine would be extended, Dr. Gregory Sucre, Principal of Mother Seton Academy, held a Zoom meeting. He let all the families know that school would not be delayed and would be continuing in an online format. The efforts of Dr. Sucre and the teachers made the transition from in-class to online rather seamless. Several donors had been contacted during the break to see if they could help provide equipment for struggling families, and these supporters jumped at the chance to be of assistance.

As with all new things, it took a little bit for the students to get in the groove of virtual learning, but their resilience and hard work has been nothing short of tremendous, as has the efforts of Mother Seton Academy's teachers. To better accommodate the students, classrooms were adjusted to smaller groups, giving each young girl and boy more individualized attention during the day. This change meant more work and for the teachers, but they readily agreed to ensure students got the support they needed during these difficult times. Staff members have also continued to check in with families. They make sure that families know where to pick up school lunches that would normally be provided by Mother Seton Academy. They see if family members have been sick or struggle with work and try to find help for those facing hardships. The school has and will continue to do its best to provide for those it serves.

In a world where so many things have changed drastically, the students and families of Mother Seton Academy have sung praises for the fabulous ongoing work that is being done. This school community and its supporters have come together to ensure that those being served get the highest quality education possible, even during a pandemic. So with hearts full of gratitude, Mother Seton Academy would like to say thank you to all who make this work possible. You are invaluable!

The Thelma Jean Ullrich Fund for the Arts Endowment

This memorial fund honors Thelma Jean Ullrich, a teacher and principal in the public schools of Mount Clemens, Michigan. She was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church of Mount Clemens, loved the beauty of nature, supported music and the arts, and gave generously to Catholic schools whose mission is to serve the poor.

This fund is intended to enrich the life of the Mother Seton Academy community by stimulating interest in the arts, specifically by providing or supplementing stipends for guest artists or performers, workshops in music, dance, acting, or any related activities.
